Thank you.

Yesterday's Stow police instagram updates on the truck which was stuck and requires a crane at this intersection were pretty interesting as well if you think of the truck fully loaded with golf carts for tournaments/company outings.

Alison,
I will share your email with the Board as part of their meeting packets.

Hi Karen:

Happy Holidays!

I am wondering if you might pass this note to the Zoning board.

We were chatting in the neighborhood (something we have been doing more since the North Course Development) and we were a bit puzzled as:

1. Just a months ago we had a chance to listen to a mournful plea from Stow Acres because they were losing money in "an old man's game" which is why they had done no maintenance on any of the existing structures (the club house is rotting away and has not seen a coat of paint for a very long time,

- the putting range has un-fixed windows) and now they can afford to build new "non-conforming" structures. We might question if they will also leave any new structures unmaintained rusting away.
2. Stow Acres has numerous crossings on Randall Road already and the proposed new service road looks like it will be a blind drive at the crest of a steep hill at one side (I run there every morning) and face into oncoming traffic from Boon Road on the other.
  3. Any structure would block the view of the "rolling South Course from Randall Road" which was used a justification for the development on the North Course

Thanks,

Alison

stowpolice Thank you everyone for your patience! As you can see the crew at CBK has been working hard to clear the tractor trailer. Boon is down to one lane but is passable. Everything should be clear within the next hour.

stowpolice Please note the Boon Road extension at the corner of Gleasondale is currently closed and we are diverting traffic accordingly due to a stuck tractor trailer on Boon Road.
